As Debbie Friedman sang: We must live for today, we must build for tomorrow.

Jews keep faith strong in modern world

I just read a lovely article by Hank Bordowitz about Debbie Friedman, the singer-songwriter who changed Jewish music with her inherent instincts of knowing how to appeal to the modern Jew without giving up Hebrew or any important traditions.

As a camp song leader at Olin-Sang-Ruby Union Institute (OSRUI) in Oconomowoc in the early 1970s, she linked Hebrew and English to familiar folk melodies to express Jewish prayer so people could sing along and understand.

The guitar allowed her to take her music to different locations at camp, and to welcome everyone, especially those who would sing along with her. Her Mi Shebeirach prayer for healing has been sung world-wide by Jews and gentiles.

Bordowitz's article made me think about how adaptive Jews have been for thousands of years and why we have survived exile, oppression and anti-Semitism through unbelievable obstacles, while other religions and nations have not.

I've often marveled at this and wondered what made it possible. I believe it was a combination of adaptation, memory and the importance of handing down the traditions and beliefs to the next generations.

In the Babylonian exile after the Temple's destruction, Jews began meeting to read Torah and pray together. The teachers and prophets of the time would not allow

CANTOR DEBORAH MARTIN

From the Spiritual Leader's Desk

Debbie Friedman's yahrzeit was being observed when Cantor Martin wrote this column. Friedman died at age 59 on Jan. 9, 2011. "Twenty-five years ago, North American Jews had forgotten how to sing," said Rabbi Eric Yoffie, former president of the Union for Reform Judaism. "Debbie reminded us how to sing, she taught us how to sing. She gave us the vehicles that enabled us to sing. Then she impacted our youth and our camps and, ultimately, from there she impacted our synagogues. What happens in the synagogues of Reform Judaism today — the voices of song — are in large measure due to the insight, brilliance and influence of Debbie Friedman."

Jews to forget their faith. They substituted prayer for sacrifices. Martyrs who died with the Shema on their lips had made sure that they had students who would carry on the faith.

Wherever they have lived, Jews have adapted and absorbed customs, languages and music. Unfortunately, when they stopped using Hebrew as their vernacular, many started gradually to forget their original language.

In response, sages and scholars developed a special system of vowels, punctuations and even the cantillations so that the Jews would not forget how to speak the language or sing the melodies. Yet there were slight differences, depending on where people lived.

Debbie Friedman sought to preserve Hebrew prayer while invigorating it with a newly absorbed language, English, and her own take on modern American music.

She inherited her passion for Judaism from her bubbe (grandmother), and she made her own passion accessible to other Jews so they could pray in a melodic and easy framework that was to become their own.

I was not allowed to chant Torah for my Bat Mitzvah or put on a tallit or Kippah. I understand the importance of my being counted in a minyan. Debbie Friedman created music on behalf of all modern Jews, and especially women. When she touched you, she touched you deeply.

Although she was self-trained musically and scholastically, she studied the texts and music with scholars and cantors. She wrote music to convey the meaning of traditional prayers, often with words in both Hebrew and English. In doing so, she spoke to the mind and heart.

She once taught the V'ahavta prayer, sung to her music, with much in English translation. "I was stunned when they suddenly put their arms around each other and there were tears rolling down their faces," she said. "They were reclaiming this prayer, and it was ours in a musical language they were able to understand ... We were reclaiming something that we hadn't touched, that we had no access to until now."

We Jews continue to adapt. Jews are acquiring new ways to find meaning and beauty in our traditions and texts. Some of us do so by merging the music of our time and place with the traditions and words of the past.

May we continue to learn as we grow spiritually. May we always continue to adapt, to remember our past and to dream as we create our future.

May we also continue to teach our children to love, cherish and teach the new generations as they make Judaism meaningful in their lives.

Kein Yehi Ratson! May this be God's will!

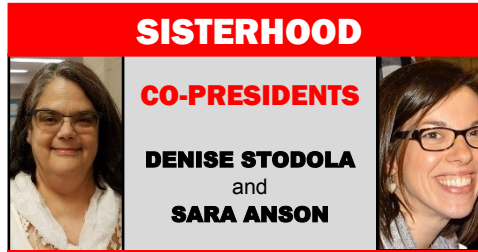

SOUP-ER SHABBAT: The next Soup-er Shabbat meal will be held at 5:45 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 7th. Clean-up will start at 6:45 p.m., and Cantor Martin leads the Shabbat service at 7 p.m. RSVP to Mari-Claire Zimmerman with how many will be in your party and what you will bring to share — a soup or other food.

Donations, volunteers, attendees needed

By DENISE STODOLA

Winter this year seems as if it is going to be long and slow.

We can keep our hearts and the hearts of others warm by continuing the Mitzvah of donating to the Waukesha Food Pantry. Please remember the food bin in the lobby when coming to Temple. The Sisterhood is planning its annual Purim Tikkun Olam project and hopes that everyone will participate in this project, too.

We are still in need of Sisterhood members willing to volunteer their time, talents, knowledge and personality. No job is too small or too large. It can be a one-time or a monthly contribution. This includes the Programming Committee, which is still looking for a Programming Chair and members.

Please participate and attend the upcoming Sisterhood Shabbat and Heritage Dinner fundraiser. There are plenty of opportunities for volunteering your time.

Please save the dates and stay tuned for more information:

Sisterhood to lead Shabbat service on May 15th

By MARSHA FENSIN
Sisterhood Shabbat Chair

The annual Sisterhood Shabbat will be held Friday, May 15th.

Sisterhood members lead the service, and we hope everyone in the congregation will attend.

We are looking for all women in the congregation who are interested in helping with the evening — taking a Hebrew or English part in the service, or by helping with the dinner before the service.

Thank you to Carol O'Neil for again taking on the chairmanship of the dinner.

If you are interested in participating in the service, please contact Marsha Fensin at (262) 894-2718 or mfsings@wi.rr.com. If you can help with the dinner, please contact Carol at (920) 669-3682 or caroljo@tds.net. Stay tuned to further details about the service and dinner.

Purim Tikkun Olam project coming

By SANDRA VILLA
Tikkun Olam Chair

It's that time of year again when Sisterhood is planning a Tikkun Olam project in conjunction with the holiday of Purim.

We will again be working with the Hope Center, a non-profit organization, that is geared to providing for the basic needs of those families and individuals in Waukesha who can't make it on their own.

This year the greatest needs are:

- Infant clothing size zero to three months;

- Large baby bottles

Hope Center is well stocked on diapers, wipes and small bottles. Please refrain from including these items, as storage space is at a minimum.

We owe thanks to Carrie Barbakoff, our education director, who has agreed to provide an opportunity for some of the upper-grade students to participate in this project. We are delighted to have them experience the meaning of Tikkun Olam first hand.

If you have any questions or suggestions, please contact Sandra Villa at 262-424-2263 or sandravilla724@gmail.com.

MIDRASH CLASS OFFERED: All adults are welcome to join in the weekly Midrash class. It runs from 10:30 a.m. to noon most Wednesdays. Contact Cantor Martin for more information.

PORGY AND BESS FROM MET: There will be a 6:30 p.m. performance of the Gershwins' Porgy and Bess on Wednesday, Feb. 5th at the Marcus Majestic Cinema in Brookfield. Congregant Jeff Shabman will introduce the opera at 5:45 p.m.

BENEFIT CONCERT SET: The Association of Waukesha Congregations is holding a benefit concert on Feb. 23rd (3 p.m.) at United Unitarian Church in Waukesha. The goal is to raise money for a homeless shelter. Cantor Martin and the CEEW choir and band will be among the musicians.

PARTICIPATE IN SCRIP PROGRAM: Purchasing gift cards and electronic Scrip, with access to more than 750 retailers, will earn CEEW anywhere from 2.5 percent to 16 percent. It's easy and costs you nothing. Check it out at shopwithscrip.com. To learn more or to start purchasing Scrip, contact Laurie Schwartz at (303) 888-5137 or at Iss303@aol.com.

Tu b'shevat seder to be held Feb. 2nd

Fifth- and sixth-graders to take part in small congregations retreat at OSRUI

This year we are celebrating the holiday of Tu b'shevat in the month of February with a Tu b'shevat seder on Feb. 2nd.

One of the take-away messages I would like to share with the congregation is: "As it says in Deuteronomy 20:19, 'A human is like a tree of the field.'"

One human, like one tree, cannot make up a community. It takes all of us working together to repair the spiritual and physical damage humans have impressed upon the Earth.

As we celebrate this holiday and eat the traditional foods, we must also think about our responsibility to the Earth and how to begin these repairs.

I am excited for my first trip to Olin Sang-Ruby Union Institute camp with some of our fifth- and sixth-grade students.

The OSRUI small congregations retreat, to be held Feb. 7th through Feb. 9th, is open to all fifth- and sixth-grade students, but not all of our students want to go.

I am looking forward for the opportunity to bring together our students with students from other congregations around the Midwest who live in small communities and in small congregational settings.

It's common for a CEEW student to be the only Jewish child in their secular

I look forward to seeing the congregation come together on Feb. 28th when, for the second time this school year, students in our younger grades will participate in the Shabbat service.

BOOK CLUB REPORT / Barb Zacher Reviews: Mrs. Everything

Book follows love, loss, family

Mrs. Everything, a book written by Jennifer Weiner, is the story of a Jewish family in Detroit.

Jennifer
WEINER

It tells about the two sisters and their lives and childhood in the 1950s until the epilogue set in 2022.

This novel covers the relationships between women, the disappointments of romance, weight loss, feminism, drugs, sexual abuse, homosexuality, Jewish culture and family life.

We meet the Kaufman family in 1951. The sisters are Jo and Bethie.

CEEW Book Club

What: Discussion of Mrs. Everything, by Jennifer Weiner

Date: Wednesday, Feb. 5th

Time: 1:30 p.m.

Where: CEEW

Jo, the oldest, hates to dress in skirts or dresses and wishes to wear pants. Her favorite activity was attending Tigers baseball games with her father, until the death of their father shapes multiple changes in their lives.

The younger sister, Bethie, works for her Uncle Mel's family to earn money after the death of her father. However, the uncle sexually abuses the young and beautiful girl.

Fashion, songs, news events, fads and styles and politics appear as markers throughout the book.

Weiner, born and raised in Philadelphia, has had three books on the New York Times best seller list: Mrs. Everything, Who Do You Love and In Her Shoes.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES NOTES

January 13th Meeting

By JOE DAILEY / Bulletin Co-Editor

Board addresses security issues; We're doing OK financially

- The Board passed a motion to pay for security for any B'nai Mitzvah service within our building during this fiscal year.
- The Board passed a motion saying that the Facility Committee should install approximately 12 new LED lighting fixtures.
- The Board passed a motion to cover, up to $100 each, the cost of CPR and automatic external defibrillator (AED) training for Cantor Martin and for Education Director Carrie Barbakoff.
- CEEW has received a $10,000 grant from the Milwaukee Jewish Federation to underwrite our security guards during the year 2020. We do not know who contributed the grant money to the Federation. We do not know whether the grant will be renewed next year.

- Treasurer Alan Meyers reported that CEEW is doing better financially than our original budget for this year anticipated. He anticipates that the congregation will end the fiscal year with a deficit, but that deficit will be smaller than anticipated. He reminded the Board that his estimates have tended to be pessimistic.
- The next Board meeting will be held 6:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 10th.
